CITY ITEMS.

The weather for the past week has been so delightfully mild, and May-like, that should it continue much longer there is reason to apprehend that the fruit crop will suffer. The unusual warmth has started vegets tion hereabouts prematurely, and the sharp frosts which we ought yet to expect may nip the swollen buds. But though very unseasonable, the bright sunshine and soft temperature are so grateful, after the bleak Winter season, that we cannot help enjoying it hugely. Yesterday was the hottest day of the season, thus far, the thermometer, at noon, standing at 85° in the sun. Stoves and heaters were at a decided discount, and windows were opened to let in the fresh, fragrant. welcome Spring zephyrs. All New-York appeared to be abroad to enjoy the day, and thousands harried away from the city, to take a little airing in the country. The Central Park is putting forth its ver nal beauties, and the skating ponds are now lakes swarming with beautiful waterfowl, chief among which swim the half a hundred stately swans, just freed from their Winter's confinement. The walks and avenue of the Park are daily resorted to by multitudes of our citizens for health and recreation, but on such occasions as yesterday the number of pleasure-seekers who throng thither surpass belief. If those who exoak about the expense of the Park could only see wint crowds of pale-faced people go to it on pleasant days for a breath of fresh air and a glimpse of its beauties, to relieve their weary eyes from the eternal monotony of the bricks and mortar of city life, and how thankf those same hard-worked, pale-faced people are that they have such a place to go to, we do not believe ever the rich grumblers would begrudge the cost.

AMUSEMENTS.-The past week has been fruitful novelties in the way of first appearances, the result of which have been duly recorded in the proper time and place. For the coming week no such specially interesting events are announced, and the exacting public will be obliged to content itself with amusements after the customary stereotyped pattern. But enough good things are down in the bills of the various houses, and a careful review of the dramatic and musical banque set for the next six nights will show the feasts to be one of such varied excellence, that no one need go theatrically lungry.

Laura Keene's Theater.—On Wednesday night lass

there was a display of fireworks in front of this house in honor of "The Seven Sisters," that drama having schieved its hundredth night. As it is still announce for "every night till other notice," it may possibly be kept on until it has completed a hundred nights for each of the Sisters Seven; indeed, it is fair matter of speculation whether our grandchildren may not take their boys and girls to see this tenacious play at this sam theater. Luckily for the public the play does not dete riorate as old age creeps upon it, but grows stronger

Winter Garden .- The play of " Oliver Twist" has drawn full houses during the past week, and Miss Cushman and Mr. J. W. Wallack, jr., have been the talk of the town as Nancy Sikes, and Fagin. The play is well put on the stage, and the minor parts, on the whole, are better acted than those of any play given at this house this Winter. So great does the de aire obtain on the part of the public to see Miss Cushman in this style of paris, that Guy Mannering will be played this week, that all may have an opportunity to see Miss Cushman in her great character of Meg Mer-stay of Mr. Forrest is limited, and that the limit is nearly ended, and from the fact that the theater is offered " to let," it is a fair presumption that Rumor or this occasion is not wide of the mark. So that those who desire to see more of Mr. Forrest must not postpone their intended visits too long, or they may be too

The attraction the past week was "Jack Cade, which has ever been one of the most striking and of fective of all Mr. Forrest's personations. It has lost nothing of its early vigor, and gives, to the full, as much pleasure now to his admirers, as in the former days. The admirable support Mr. Forrest receives at this house tends to make all the efforts of the tragedian show to the best possible advantage.

"Jack Cade" is still on the bills for this week.

Wallack's Theater .- The "ball" is still "up" on the bills of this house, which globular announcement signifies to the world that the comic drama of "Central Park" still retains its place, and that the patrons of the house are highly charmed with its comical absurdities It is promised every night yet, for an indefinite number of weeks.

New Bowery Theater .- A new sensation is in store for the patrons of this papular house. Anderson, not of Samter fame, but Anderson the magician, the Wizard of the North, for two nights only will diemiss his pe friend, and give those familiar spirits who do his mag bidding a short furlough. During the temporary ab sence of his Satunic assistants, he will amuse himself by acting "Rob Roy," at the New Bowery Theater He will be assisted by some of his own talented children, who enact some of the characters in the drama, and also by the admirable company now retained at chis house.

Union Theater .- The old National Theater is to be opened to-night under this new name, the Manager being Mr J. F. Kent. The pieces announced are "Lucretia Borgia," " Lend me Five Shillings," and " Merry Cobbler."

Hooley and Campbell's Minstrels .- No matter what may be the leading event that occupies the special attention of the world for the time being, these funny individuals soon embody its salient points in a capita barlesque. Their music, too, is of the bart, the dances of the gracefullest, and the fun of the funniest. This is by all means the most complete and enjoyable band of minatrels in the city.

Theatrical Items .- Wallack's old theater has been leased to Mr. J. W. Buckland, who, in conjunction with the managers of the French theater, will open it in a few weeks with a French company of the highest procurable excellence.

Frank Goodrich's new play is entitled "Flirtation and What Comes of it." It is a five-act comody, very smartly written, with a good plot and very brilliant dialogue. As its name indicates, it is founded on what the writer chooses to consider a feminine operator, characteristic of American women, flirtation. It seems admirably calculated for representation, and we hope to see it speedily produced at one of our leading the-

BARNUM'S MUSEUM-DEATH OF A DISTINGUISHED RESIDENT .- Woe has come to the house of Barnum, sorrow is upon his heart, and deep grief broods upon the soul of Phineas. The Museum is in black, the attendants go about with visages elongate and doleful -the man in the box-office has crape on his bat, the has the usual badge of mourning on his left drum-stick, and the individual who does music on the French horn, blows his concealed and cankering anguish through a dismal cloud of sables that envelop his wonderful instrument of harmony, from the broad funnel of the butt-end to the dainty curve of the delicate mouthpiece. Nor are the anakes, the fishes, and the other quadrupeds indifferent to the general grief—the spright-liest monkey, he with the blue bosom, the scalped tail, and the stye in his eye, did not turn a summersault for 40 minutes, and the ears of the grateful cat went unpinched by him for nearly half an hour-the bears were less sulky than has ceen their wont, the Sea-lion has put on black from head to foot-every anaconda with a proper sense of the proprieties has let out a couple of links in himself to express that his earnest woe has made him disregardful of appearances, and every fish in the whole establishment is at this moment moving in a bath of his own tears-the horse-foot crab alone, weeps not, having been refused the loan of a white linen pocket handkerchief by the hard-hearted

The grief is universal, and the whole establishment well may mourn. Death has been among them, and one of the best beloved and most cherished denizens of that most delightful and many-colored mansion has gone, to return no more-has gone the way of all flesh -elso many fowl, and most fish.

Fish! That word!! Alas!!! The Big Trout is dead. The melancholy decease of our much-beloved piscine friend took place at 28 minutes past 2 of the Saturday afternoon clock, March 2, 1861, in the Aquarial Hall attached to the Museum of our respected fellow-citizen. Phineas T. Barnum, eeq. The Ismented deceased, Mrs. Bigge Troute, has been ailing for several days, and the solicitude of her faithful friends has increased daily—it was obvious that a most interesting event could not be long postpened, and every moment brought new anxieties. Though everything was done for her that skill could suggest, science failed, "physicians was in wain," and at the hour and minute before mentioned the excellent lady breathed her last, in the act of increasing the census of the piscatorial kingdom by a number almost fabulous. The good lady had attempted to bring into the motley world seven thousand and sixty eggs at once. Proba-bly the odd sixty proved her ruin, but she is by no means the first who has fallen a victim to overweening

The unfortunate lady is supposed to have been about even years old; the date of her marriage is unknown; e was a native of the township of Andes, in Delaware County, of this State. She was taken from her late place of damp residence, and interred with all the honors on Saturday last. Her mourning friends, the other fishes, were prevented, by previous engagements, from following the remains to their last resting-place.

Spite of his sad bereavement, Mr. Barnum will still cep the Museum open, with even more, and newer attractions. The bears, with their keeper, will remain for some weeks longer.

In the theatrical department good plays are always excellently presented. The principal attraction for this week is Wilkie Collins's story of "The Woman in White," which has been made into a thrilling and

The Rev. Alexander II. Vinton of Philadelphia has accepted a call to the rectorship of St. Mark's (Episcopal) Church in this city.

DEDICATION .- The Reformed Dutch Church, on Tairty-fourth street, between Eighth and Ninth evenues, was dedicated vesterday morning with appropriate exercises. The house was crowded in every art. The discourse was delivered by the pastor, the Rev. Peter Stryker, and prayer was offered by the Rev. Dr. Ferris. The edifice formerly occupied by the congregation of this Church, was situated at the corner of Broome and Greene streets, and was known as the Broome street Reformed Dutch Church. It was built in 1823, and occupied until May, 1860. The present building is 98 feet in length by 67 in width, with towers 96 feet high. It cost $35,000, and the site it occupies $22,500 more, making a total of $57,500. It is very chaste in its architecture, being of what is designated the "decorated gothic style;" the front is of Nova-Scotia stone. There are 148 pews in the body of the house, while the gallery, running round three sides, contains 54. A gallery still higher, and opposite the pulpit, is appropriated to the choir and organ. The pews will be sold at auction to-morrow evening.

THE COURTS FOR MARCH,-To-day the March term ommences, during which, in addition to the usual outine, a special term of the Court of Over and Terminer will be held by Justice Leonard, and the Court of Appeals, which never before was held in this city, will hear appeals in one of the rooms of the old City The case of Charles Jefferds is the important trial which will come before the Court. The Court of Appeals will meet on the fourth Tuesday of March, and continue in session about three weeks. The Supreme Court. General Term, will meet on Monday, the 18th. to render decisions. Among the cases to be decided is the motion for a new trial of Billy Mulligan, convicted and sentenced for attempting to shoot a policeman. There will be two Circuits and a special term held in the Supreme Court, the latter by Judge Barnard, Judge Sutherland will sit at Chambers. The calendars in every branch of this Court have increased, and still increase faster than causes can be disposed of.

The Superior Court, General Term, will be held by three Judges. There will be a special, and two trial terms in session. The calendars of the General and Special Terms show a great falling off, the former conaining only forty causes, and the latter fifty. The Court of Common Pleas will hold the regular trial terms and a special term.

In the United States Circuit Court, the trials of the esptains and crews of the alleged slavers will be cought on at an early day. The decision in the case of Law and Conover will probably be rendered in a few days by Judge Betts, before whem the case was

RESCUE OF A FUGITIVE SLAVE .- At 31 o'clock Saturday afternoon, as the steamer Yorktown was about to leave her dock for Norfolk, Va., a carriage containing two United States deputy marshals, having in custody a colored man, was driven upon the pier. One of the marshals attempted to dreg the man on board the vessel, but he clung to the rails of the gangplank and implored the crowd to save him, at the same time alleging that he was a freeman. Officer Armstrong of the steamboat squad, being near at hand, demanded of the marchals to see their warrant, but neither had any. One of the marshals set off to procure a warrant, but in the meantime the alleged fugitive, urged on by the crowd, took to his heels and managed to clude pursuit. The United States marshals allege that the negro's name was John Polhemus, and that he had escaped from the service of his master, Mr. Jameson, who resides in Louisburg, Va.

DEATH OF AN OLD MERCHANT .- Mr. Wm. W. Fox, one of the oldest merchants of this city, and President of the New-York Gas Company, died at his residence at West Farms on Saturday night, in the 78th year of his age. The deceased was a member of the society of Friends. His funeral takes place to-day.

MEETING OF THE GOVERNORS OF THE WOMEN'S HOSPITAL.-At the regular monthly meeting of the Board of Governors of the Women's Hospital of the State of New-York, held at No. 71 West Thirteenth street, on Thursday evening, the 28th ult., the Hon. James W. Beekman, the President, took the chair, and Joseph B. Collins acted as Secretary pro tem. After the reading of the minutes, Dr. J. Marion Sims announced to the Board the death of Dr. John W. Francis, one of its members, and moved the appointment of a Committee to prepare resolutions expressive of the sense of the Board on this corrowful event. Whereupon the President appointed Messrs. Geo. T. Trimble, Peter Cooper, and Dr. Sims as said Committee, to which the President, Mr. Beekman, was added. The Committee retired for consultation, and on their return presented a series of appropriate resolutions expressive of their high estimation of the character of Dr. Francis as a man and as a friend of the Hospital, and of their sympathy with his family in their bereavement.

BRUTAL ASSAULT .- We are informed that on Saturday morning last, about 8 o'clock, as a member of No. 30 Engine, named John McCoy, was on his way to the fire in Pearl street, he was knocked down by some members of Engine Company No. 16, and on attempting to regain his feet, was struck on the head with a trumpet in the hands of one of 16's members, named Webb, inflicting a very severe wound. The assailant fled immediately, but the police are on his track, and expect soon to effect his capture.

LECTURE ON ETHNOLOGY.-Prof. B. J. Raphael (not the Rabbi) delivered a lecture on "The plural origin of the human race," on Satarday evening, at the New-York Medical College. Were all the races brethren? He believed they were not. To consider that they were would involve the same absurdities, the speaker said, as to believe that our earth was created only 6,000 years ago, or that the stars had been called into being to share round it, or that all the animals of the world had been derived from pairs saved from the the world had been derived from pairs given from the flood in Noah's ark. Where there are physical differ-ences, there will be intellectual differences; and the differences of the races are very marked. The African has a thicker skull than the Caucasian, a much larger proportion of his brain lies behind a perpendicular line drawn through the opening of the ear, the collar-bone is shorter, the fore-arm is considerably longer, in this secret includes towards the arc the third is longer respect inclining towards the upe, the thigh is longer in proportion to the leg, the legs are often bound, his heel-bone is much longer and less rounded, his toes are greatly turned out. The races are dissimilar in color, mosseous structure, and other characteristics. The Hottentot and the Bushman as nearly resembled the orang-outang as they do the Caucasian race. There is an endless variety in the modes of living. Some live in huts, some in the houses; some ent smakes; some, to gain the favor of Deity, cut their grandfathers. He desired that climate and habits would prevent for the gain the favor of Deity, eat their grandfathers. He de-nied that climate and habits would account for the varieties of race. History showed that the same dif-ferences of race had always existed. They were found represented upon the oldest Egyptian pyramids. It was triling with the subject to suppose that the negro-race had originated in some frenk of nature—to assume that "in the flight of ages past a negro haby had been born of white parents," and hence an interminable line of negro babies. The Speaker then dwelt on what he called "the scheme of aptitudes" pervading nature. The law of adaptation disclosed itself in making the black man for Africa as much as in forming the rein-The law of adaptation disclosed users in black man for Africa as such as in forming the reindeer and polar bear for artic regions. Under the burning sun of Africa the negro found his highest development, while the white rare under the same circulations without and became extinct. What the constances withered and became extinct. What Bible says on the subject was next considered, narrative of Moses referred to more than one or Bible says on the subject was next considered. The narrative of Moses referred to more than one original race. There was no "irrepressible nigger" in the Garden of Eden; this was inhabited by the white race. "This creation of Adam and Eve," said the lecturer, 'had reference to the Cancasian race, of which the Jews were a variety." Cain's going off to the land of Nod to get a wife showed that the earth was is habited by others than Adam's family. So of the marder mark on his forchead—Cain did not dread the anger of his own kindred but of other inhabitants of the world. The lecturer concluded by referring to various pussanges of Scripture to show that the planne "all" and "every one" were not to be taken literally.

This was recovered, and the prisoners taken before Justice Couractive at Jefferson Merfeld. AN APPEAL FOR THE FIVE POINTS.

Let not the benevolent forget the poor at the Five Points. The calls for help press heavily upon us. Scores of persons with families depending upon them are still without work. Sickness, especially among children, is very prevalent, and want and suffering meet us in all our visits to the poor of this vicinity. Hitherto we have been able to alleviate the mea-pressing cases of distress, but now our means are exhausted. Our e-barrel and bean-barrel are empty, our money is gone and to day we have been compelled to turn away very needy per sons whom we know are truly worthy. A GROSS MISREPRESENTATION.

To the Editor of The N. Y. Tribune. Sin: In The Tunuse of Saturday appears an article in relation to the death of Sergeant John McLane of the let Regiment, which contains statements so utterly unfounded and calculated to do me great injury, that I am compelled to ask you to publish the true facts of the case. This article states that he died in an old garret, unfurnished and comfortless, and that the body Sereant McLase died at my recidence, No. 36% Pearl street, in a comfortable apartment (far from the garret), and breathed his met in the presence of myself and two others. He had every attendance pessible, medical and otherwise, which were furtished by me, without may, for he was an old acquaintance, and I took him is, some time since, out of pure compassion, as he had no means of support and was unable to work. Col. Burnham was immediately gottised of his death, on Tuesday morning, but, not hearing from him. he was sgain applied to on Wednesday, when after considerable delay, he sent to examine the case, and not till the evening of Thursday was the body removed. I would have attended to it and borne the expense myself, but the deceased requested this course to be pursued, so that he might be buried by his old companions in arms. He has received my friends, who will be astonished when they read the account in The TRIBERS. By giving this an insertion, you will greatly obline me, and do an set of metice. Yours, &c...
